income tax position will more-likely-than-not be sustained upon examination by taxing authorities. The Organization has analyzed tax positions taken for filing with the Internal Revenue Service and all state jurisdictions where it operates. The Organization believes that income tax filing positions will be sustained upon examination and does not anticipate any adjustments that would result in a material adverse effect on the Organizations financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows. Accordingly, the Organization has not recorded any reserves, or related accruals for interest and penalties for uncertain income tax positions at December 31, 2022. The Organization is subject to routine audits by taxing jurisdictions; however, there are currently no audits for any tax periods in progress.

Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

Protecting the Source: Highlights from South America

Forest Economies Program

Fundación Pachamama's Forest Economies Program was launched in 2019 and supports bio-entrepreneurship and regeneration projects in the South-Central Amazon region of Ecuador. These innovative projects generate income for communities who might otherwise look for income from the oil, mining, and logging industries trying to infiltrate the region. The program searches for solutions based on sustainable use of forest resources that are also financially viable for community development.

As part of this effort, the Chakra Project was launched at the beginning of 2022. This project supports entrepreneurship by encouraging rainforest communities to grow financially viable crops in their family food gardens, called chakras in Achuar. The project focuses on the cultivation of two crops: morete and vanilla.

Morete is a native palm tree fruit that has not yet been introduced to local markets. It contains more vitamin A than carrots, more vitamin E than avocado, and is rich in protein, fat and carbs. A deal has been made with a Peruvian beverage company to purchase 50 tons of morete fruit from Indigenous communities to include in a superfruit beverage. Part of the agreement is to leave half of the fruit on the trees so that local animals can continue to eat from the trees.

Vanilla is an orchid native to the Amazon and is still found growing wild in the rainforest. Fundación Pachamama has been exploring vanilla as a potential value chain for three years now. A pilot farm has been set up to experiment with different varieties of vanilla to see what would be the best variety to cultivate in Indigenous communities. Research is now focusing on how to process the vanilla beans in the rainforest and then how to work with the private sector to have the vanilla distributed.

Ikiamia Nukuri

Over the past 10 years, the Ikiamia Nukuri program, which provides maternal and infant health services and teaches safe birthing practices, has assisted nearly 3,000 pregnancies. To date, there are 69 trained Maternal Health Promoters (MHPs) serving 79 Indigenous communities. MHPs cover 100% of Achuar associations, a territory of about 5,000 people, and 50% of Shuar associations, a territory of about 8,000 people. The program completed its expansion into Achuar territory in 2021, and maintains its goal of expanding to 100% of Shuar associations in 2023.

The 69 MHPs received additional training in 2022, upgrading the qualifications of all of the women. Additionally, 550 safe birthing kits were provided to Achuar and Shuar women, strengthening the chances for a safe and healthy birth.

The Ministry of Health in Ecuador and the Pan American Health Organization have publicly endorsed the effectiveness of Ikiamia Nukuri's work with women and families and are interested in finding new ways to collaborate.

forest and the sustainable management of forest resources and biodiversity in the face of threats from the exploitation of balsa wood in Achuar territory and pressure on the forest due to demographic expansion.

A team of forest monitors has been trained and is now in charge of gathering and monitoring territorial forest information through the use of GPS equipment and drones.

Fundación Pachamama also initiated a reforestation project to plant 300,000 trees in Ecuador's south-central Amazon region. The Provincial Government of Pastaza region and the Municipality of Arajuno have both committed to donate 100,000 trees and 50,000 trees, respectively, to this project.

Human Rights and Nature Rights

Fundación Pachamama's legal team was active in at least 10 national and international cases for Indigenous peoples and nationalities, including the Mirador case regarding violation of Indigenous rights caused by a huge open-pit mining project in Ecuador. This case was declared admissible before the Interamerican Human Rights System. Another important international case is the Taromenane case. The Taromenane case is the first case in which the Inter-American Human Rights Court will analyze the human rights of Indigenous communities in isolation, who choose to avoid contact with the outside world. The standards that will be established with this case will set a worldwide precedent for the protection of these isolated Indigenous communities.

Inspiring the Future: Highlights from Around the World

Awakening the Dreamer

Pachamama Alliance's flagship program continued to inspire and motivate participants in 2022. 89% of reporting participants indicated the course increased their motivation to act on behalf of environmental sustainability and 95% reported an increase in their motivation to act on behalf of social justice.

Game Changer Intensive

The Game Changer Intensive-an 8-week online course that catalyzes the inner work of transformation and prepares people to engage in effective collective action-has reached over 8,200 people from 150 countries around the world. In 2022, the course included an increased focus on local community action and prepared participants to participate in Pachamama Alliance's new Introduction to Community Climate Action Training.

Resilience and Possibility

We continued to offer the Resilience and Possibility in These Times series of online offerings to support us all in staying connected to one another, to a vision for the future, and to the spirit of life in these challenging times. In 2022, the program attracted over 5,700 people from across the world to explore climate justice, climate restoration, sacred drumming, spirit in action, and more. Participants describe their experience as "unforgettable", "inspirational", "earth-shatteringly true and beautiful", "deeply healing and profound", "stimulating and inspiring", "eye-opening", and "spirit-led."

Introduction to Community Climate Action Training

We successfully completed 2 iterations of Introduction to Community Climate Action Training-a 10-week training focusing on developing key skills for local community action and climate justice, grounded in a profound appreciation for the interconnectedness of all life. 60 people from around the world took part in the program, which was offered in English and Japanese. The community climate justice projects that have launched as a result of the program include: creation of ORCAH, an online hub sharing about events and organizations that support Oregonians to engage in climate action; blocking construction of a new fossil fuel infrastructure by offering an alternative vision of a sustainable future; successfully lobbying in a California county to allow green burials; creation of an Interfaith Climate Action group with 12 temples and churches in Florida, implementation and expansion of regenerative agriculture and permaculture practices in Ichikawa, Japan, and Ecosystem restoration in Malawi.

The Game Changer Action Network

In 2022, we launched the Game Changer Action Network-a virtual global community that offers additional learning, support and connection and enhances Pachamama Alliance program participants' capacity to co-create Climate Justice with actionable steps and projects with measured outcomes in their local communities. 2022 was a fantastic year where the visionary participants that make up this community came together in Network Community spaces, and multiple workshops including topics such as Systems Thinking, Fundraising, and Planning for Climate Justice. An important aspect of the Network is to support emerging projects that weave in climate and justice solutions in local communities around the world. As such, the Network has paired 6 participants with such projects with expert coaches who can support their success. The projects include Healing Food Systems, a Permaculture Farm Demo in Kenya, Reforestation in Malawi, the first ever Online Climate Hub in Oregon, and more.
